4 Summary -- Is this right / true?

The site should help people...

Understand what Nibi Walks are

Prepare themselves well to participate

Access accurate information about upcoming walks

Support the walks materially and financially

Feel connected to the prayer, even from a distance

Key messages

The website exists to help people engage with the walks in the right way.

It is a prayer

Nibi Walks are spiritual acts of prayer and responsibility. The website should communicate this sacred purpose, moving beyond positioning them as merely public events.

Do something for the water everyday

Invite visitors into respectful relationship, preparation, prayer, and support. Create pathways for meaningful engagement rather than passive browsing.

Indigenous-led

Leadership, story, protocol, and interpretation remain rooted in Indigenous leadership and Sharon Day's intentions. This authority must be clearly visible throughout the site.

Accuracy and specificity matter

Use correct names, correct context, and specific information. Include Indigenous names of bodies of water and identify the people actually leading the work.

Respectful storytelling

Present the story of the walks with care and attention. Honor who owns the story and what can or cannot be shared publicly. Protect sacred knowledge.

Audiences

Current Walkers

Logistics & coordination
Starting locations & timing
What to expect on the walk
Protocol & guidelines
Music & language references
Ways to stay connected beyond the walk

Donors

Clear giving path
How donations support the walk
Relationship to IPTF
Why support matters
Impact & transparency

Off-Season Walkers & Returning Participants

Continued community connection
Next steps & opportunities
Ways to deepen relationship with Nibi
Engagement between walks
Ongoing support & involvement

Spiritual Walkers

Feel connected from afar
Contribute prayers & intentions
Share the message appropriately
Encouragement toward hope
Meaningful participation at a distance

Potential Walkers

What the walk is
Why people participate
Confirmation of welcome
How to prepare
How to show up respectfully
What to bring or share

Material Support Providers

Who to contact
What kinds of support are useful
How to coordinate support
Logistics for contributions
Timing & delivery

Indigenous Leadership & History Seekers

Who the leaders are
How the walks began
Sharon's role & legacy
Trustworthy materials
Press resources & sound bites
Exhibits & educational content

Key needs across all audiences

Preparation in context of culturally based protocol

Seeing themselves as part of the community of Nibi Walks

Clear ways to support

Accurate logistics

Stories and reflections from the walks that help express the spiritual and cultural meaning of walks